Dysart Reeve Bill Davis will leave political life

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Dysart's Reeve has announced that he will not be seeking re-election.

In a statement released on Friday, Bill Davis said he has taken a full-time position with the Ministry of Health's central ambulance dispatch branch, a job which will require much of his time.

Davis specified that he would not be running for either reeve or deputy-reeve. In an interview on Friday, Davis says he has not completely ruled out the possibility of running as a candidate for councillor, but said it is "quite unlikely" his name will appear on the ballot.

"I like political life and I like serving people," said Davis. "I hope I contributed something, and I feel I have."

In the 1988 election, Davis was elected to the position of deputy-reeve and assumed the role of reeve when Murray Fearrey resigned in January 1990.

The decision not to seek re-election was difficult Davis admitted, and he says he is worried that the election will see a lot of new faces around the county council table which will disrupt continuity.

"It scares me," he said. "Continuity is very important."

In choosing not to seek re-election, Davis will also be giving up his position as Haliburton County's representative on the Ontario Gypsy Moth Management Committee, of which he is currently chairman.

He says he will ask county council's permission to finish

School enrollment up by 120 students

by Susan Grober

Classroom space will be a bit tighter this year with an enrollment increase of 120 students in Haliburton County's elementary and secondary schools.

"I'm pleased to see enrollment is up," says Dale Robinson, Superintendent of the Haliburton County Board of Education.

"It's always good to have a problem with squeezing people into classrooms, rather than have low enrollment."

When school started last week, there were approximately 90 more elementary level and 30 more secondary level students than the board expected.

"We weren't really anticipating any increase in enrollment over last year," says Robinson. "Because of the economy, we thought enrollment would stay slack. But we've certainly had a significant increase."

Fortunately, the students come from a cross-section of grade levels, from all over the county, so they are "scattered out over different classes," says Robinson.

"We will have some full classes, but nothing serious," he says. "Our classes will just be a little bit fuller, but we're managing. It just means we'll have to add or subtract four or five students at each grade level."

Because more students could enrol and others may drop out, it will take a couple of weeks for the actual enrollment numbers to stabilize.

However, at this time, Robinson says it won't be necessary to hire any new teachers. "We can just work around what we have."

Robinson says most of the extra students come from new families who just moved to the county, which was unexpected because of the scarcity of jobs in the area.

"I can't tell what's happened, but I guess it just shows that Haliburton County is a great place to be. It looks good on our education system."

Painting on smiles

Five-year-old Jason Peacock was a little hesitant at first, but eventually enjoyed the activities during his first day of Kindergarten last Friday. Jason is in Mrs. Welch's even class at Archie Stouffer Elementary School.

Tax meeting attracts angry group of 500

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

The natives aren't just restless, they're angry.

More than 500 people packed the Legion in Haliburton Village last Friday night for the first public meeting of the Taxpayers Coalition of Haliburton County.

They listened to presentations from local and provincial leaders of tax coalitions who spoke about government waste at all levels and the inability of ordinary citizens to influence political fiscal policy.

But mostly they addressed the growing frustration people feel because of annual tax increases which are far exceeding the rate of inflation.

Minden resident Gary Kenney, who along with John Beachli co-chairs the Haliburton coalition, told the audience that the main goal is making fiscal responsibility a key issue during the municipal elections in November.

"We have to know the people we put in charge are going to pay attention to our concerns. Not just listen, but pay attention," said Kenney. "We want them to steer the mechanism, not be steered by it."

Beachli said organizing the tax coalition became necessary because, "things seem to be getting out of control." The coalition's (more on page 4)

Strike threatens TSW operations

the county's interests will continue to be well represented at the provincial level.

"These are very trying times in political life and candidates for various positions have no easy battle to deal with the important issues that they will encounter in the years ahead at municipal, county, provincial and federal levels of government," Davis said in his announcement. "One would hope that these decisions will continue to enhance the quality of living not only in the Municipality of Dysart, but the County of Haliburton as well."

Correction

An article in last week's paper incorrectly stated that a song performed by the Canadian Children's Opera Chorus was for Kilcoo Camp Director David Latimer.

Instead the song — an ode to the camp's great food — was addressed to chef Dave Roylance, who won rave reviews from the singers for his culinary talents. The Times regrets the error.

John Lewis, Superintendent of the Waterway, says lock operations in the waterway will be disrupted by the strike but water control and monitoring efforts will be maintained.

"Our first priority is water control, and designated employees will be required to report to work," he said.

This means it will be "business as usual" for the Waterway's operation of the dams on Haliburton County's reservoir lakes.

Employees of the Trent-Severn Waterway are members of the Public Service Alliance of Canada.

The Trent-Severn Waterway is a department of Parks Canada.

The union has announced a general strike of federal employees starting this week to protest the federal government's plan to freeze wages this year and limit increase to three per cent for the next two years.

Although control of water levels in Haliburton will not be affected by the walk-out, Lewis says navigation of the 386-kilometre Waterway will be disrupted.

If lock operators join the strike, Lewis says boaters may find themselves unable to travel on the Waterway.

He says every effort is being made to inform boaters about the possible disruption and Waterway officials are attempting to clear the system of boats which may become trapped by the strike.

"We're monitoring the situation fairly closely and are aware of the location of boats in the system and advising people not to enter the waterway," he said.

Every effort will be made to ensure that boaters caught in the waterway can safely exit the system.

Access at ASES to be improved

by Susan Grober

Archie Stouffer Elementary School may become more accessible to those who use wheelchairs.

A committee currently studying methods to make the main school building more wheelchair accessible will make a recommendation at the Haliburton County Board of Education's next meeting, on September 23.

At present, two children attending the school's main campus use wheelchairs for mobility.

"We have problems with the stairs, and with washrooms," says school board Superintendent Dale Robinson.

"Last year, we only had one wheelchair student, who is partially mobile. So we managed to work around it."

But a new student this year can only use the wheelchair, and must be lifted up the stairs by assistants.

"It's really brought the accessibility problem to a head," says Robinson. "We're really going to have to look at a ramp or lift, so these children can negotiate the stairs."

And, although the students can use the present washrooms, Robinson says it's important that the facilities be made easier to access.

"We want to make the school a more comfortable environment for them."

OPP Constable Mike Maybee is our local Crime Stoppers co-ordinator, and encourages residents to provide any information which could help police with investigations into the 'Crime of the Week.'

New column helps us all take a bite out of crime

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Crime Stoppers is coming to Haliburton County.

Starting this week, the OPP detachment in Minden will be participating in the program in conjunction with Lindsay Crime Stoppers Incorporated.

Residents will be eligible for cash awards of up to $1,000 for providing anonymous telephone tips which lead to an arrest.

OPP Constable Mike Maybee, the local Crime Stoppers coordinator, will be publishing a "Crime of the Week" in the two local newspapers and residents will be encouraged to provide any information which could help police with their investigation.

Anyone with information can call a toll-free number to Lindsay.

The Crime Stoppers operator will provide the person with a personalized code number and the person making the call will never have to give his/her name.

Crime Stoppers will take the information provided and pass it along to the appropriate police detachment for investigation.

Depending on the outcome of the investigation, the Crime Stoppers' board will decide if a cash award should be given and the amount.

The person who provided the information will then be directed to pick up his cash award at a local bank or business.

"The police are not involved in the payment," says Maybee. "We don't even want to know the names of the people who call. It's taken out of our hands and handled by civilians."

The program is being co-ordinated through Lindsay Crime Stoppers because it would be too expensive to set up a independent effort in

Taxpayers sound off at meeting

'This election, things have got to be different.'

credibility will be gained through numbers and looking at the standing room only crowd, Beachli said; "We have credibility here tonight."

One of the key speakers at the meeting was George Lansens who successfully engineered a popular tax revolt in Blenheim and is the Chairman of the Ontario Taxpayers Coalition.

"Your presence here is a message to local politicians that taxpayers in Haliburton County are united," said Lansens. "But that message is not powerful enough. You will only affect change at the local level if you have the numbers to demand it."

He told the crowd they should commit themselves to the movement and each sign up 10 new members.

"If you support the movement from your armchair, you are not protecting your own interests," he said. "You have to make your support known and visible."

Lansens outlined six objectives of the Ontario coalition which will require amendments to the Municipal Act. The objectives are:

- a public vote on mill rates and municipal capital budgets;
- direct election of all local boards and commissions to replace the current system of appointments;
- an end to mandated programs which are passed down from the provincial to municipal governments;

Key speaker George Lansens successfully engineered a popular tax revolt in Blenheim.

- limitations on the number of terms which elected municipal politicians are allowed to serve;

- recorded votes on all resolutions which require the expenditure of money; and

- consolidation and rationalization of municipal services to reduce duplication.

The adoption of these measures by the province would put in place a system of checks and balances which are not evident now, said Lansens.

holding payment of property taxes as a means of protest.

Lansens organized such a tax revolt in Blenheim this year and as a result the county levy did not increase at all and the education levy increased by less than one per cent.

He predicted that by next spring there will be a massive property tax revolt right across the province.

Residents who refuse to pay property taxes can be charged interest by the municipality at the rate of 1.4 per cent a month and, after three years, the property can be put up for sale.

But Lansens said once a tax revolt is started, "it will take about three weeks for you to get what you want."

Other speakers at the meeting included Frank Seehan, who is secretary/treasurer of the Ontario Taxpayers Coalition, and Paul Pegnuello, chairman of the Taxpayers Coalition of Victoria County.

Pegnuello advised people to focus more on the board of education during the upcoming elections because education costs represent about 60 per cent of property taxes. He said voters have to show more interest in candidates and issues during this election than they have in the past.

"In 1988, a lot of people voted blindly. This has to stop," he said. "We can blame politicians for a lot of things, but we have to look at ourselves and our responsibility. This election things have got to be different."

Seehan said Canada has traditionally had excellent governments, which led the country out of World War II and the Depression with no debt and balanced budgets, until Liberal Prime Ministers Pierre Trudeau and John Turner began the trend of deficit financing and increased government spending.

"Those fellow must have been good role models, because all the local hoods are doing the same thing to us," said Seehan.

The large turnout at the meeting was an obvious relief to organizers who were worried that a lack of public interest would sink their efforts.

"We had two basic fears," Kenney said before the meeting.

"Whether there would be anyone here to listen, and if we would be able to capture them."

The size of the crowd easily put the first fear to rest and, judging from the amount of applause which greeted the speakers, people needed little encouragement to adopt the cause.

Perhaps a more significant gauge of support is the fact that after the speeches, organizers solicited donations to cover the coalition's costs and more than $1,600 was raised in just a few minutes.

The coalition also enlisted the aid of volunteers from around the county to help with preparations for the municipal election. Organizers hope to question candidates on specific fiscal issues and release report cards evaluating the responses.

Summer slowdown no surprise

'People are watching their dollars a little more closely'

by Susan Grober

Recession. Inflation. GST. Property tax increases.

Haliburton County businesses have been hit hard by all these blows to the local economy.

Some have been forced to go under. But the majority of businesses have struggled through the summer, working hard to make the most of the tourist season and rack up enough dividends to survive the continued slowdown that this winter will bring.

It hasn't been easy, with most people keeping a tight hold on their dollars and curbing their spending.

So as the season comes to a close, local business owners are cautious in judging whether this summer was a success or a failure.

Stuart Brandon, of Northland Sales and Northland Footwear in Minden, says of this summer's business: "It wasn't as good as last year, and last year wasn't as good as the year before. It wasn't disastrous, but it wasn't as we would like to have seen."

Although the same number of people have frequented the stores, "they were certainly spending less," he says.

"People are watching their dollars a little more closely, as we would have come to expect. The only encouraging thing we found was, as the summer progressed, people's attitudes changed somewhat. They were more willing to part with a little cash."

Brandon was surprised to find that business actually improved this year over last during July and August. But the fact that it was a bad season overall this summer didn't come as a shock to Brandon.

"We weren't expecting much, so we weren't surprised," he says. "Things have been bad for the past 12 months, so we weren't expecting things to be on the high side. It was acceptable... if negative growth can be acceptable."

Brandon feels it's a psychological thing for people to hold onto their money during a recession. Even if they can afford to spend, they're afraid.

The summer rush is over at the Stedmans store in Minden. Here cashier Tracy Hughes, left, helps customer Denise Stata make a purchase.

"Even those people who you know have money, recession-proof people who work for the government, or wherever the recession has no impact, have been pulling back on spending."

This year's sidewalk sale in Minden Village was more successful than last year's by about five per cent, says Brandon.

However, it's not lucrative for businesses with already low prices to slash even further.

"The sidewalk sale works, no question. But you're not meeting your margin when you have a sale. It increases cash flow, but doesn't increase profitability."

John Pentney, of Minden's Home Hardware, says he didn't find the summer to be too bad.

"It was more of a case where people were buying when they could afford it, and buying not as much as they would another year."

People purchased more "smaller ticket items," he says.

"In fact, there were probably more people through the store this year than last. They just weren't spending as much per person as they used to."

Because construction has slowed down, there weren't many contractors in buying supplies, says Pentney.

"I was hoping for more, but I'm not disappointed in the way things turned out. Each year, we try to progress," Pentney says.

"I guess we have to settle for what we get. Considering the economy, we did quite well."

Vince Connaughan, owner of the Stedmans stores in both Minden and Haliburton, says his business "was down a little bit, but wasn't bad overall."

"I don't believe that the numbers of people were there," he says. "Even though the streets were full, they were fuller last year. And my registers do show a downfall of the number of people going through," he says.

Like most business-owners, Connaughan expected business to be slow this summer, because sales have been down over the past year.

"Right from January, we started getting a trend of what people's feelings were, what kind of money they had, and how much they were willing to part with," he says. "And there was no change. It was true to form, right straight through."

By gauging the spending habits of locals before the summer, Connaughan was able to accurately estimate how cottagers would spend in the summer.

"We got a taste of what the local people were thinking, and the cottagers were thinking the same way. There was no difference in their habits."

"It didn't matter if they were from Toronto, Minden, Haliburton or Oshawa. They all had caution in their minds for the whole year."

Connaughan must order six months ahead of time to stock the two stores, and can't return or cancel merchandise if he feels business is slowing down.

"I've stocked the stores as heavily as always," he says. "What we have now, we'll still have if it doesn't sell."

Connaughan says business is similar at both stores. "I can predict what Minden is doing by what Haliburton is doing. There's no difference."

Shouting from the windows

They're mad as hell and they're not going to take it anymore.

The ratepayers of Haliburton County have gone to the window, the way Peter Finch in the movie "Network" advised residents of his community to do, and shouted their message of frustration. Now it's a matter of waiting until November to determine if anyone is listening.

The "shout" came in the form of a public meeting Friday evening at the Legion Hall in Haliburton. It was a classic case of citizens in action, as approximately more than 500 crowded into the hall to demonstrate their support for the principle of fiscal responsibility on the part of all elected representatives.

In that meeting, the citizens' group found the legitimacy it has been looking for. Since its inception, shortly after Haliburton County Council brought down a budget which included a 35% increase in spending, the citizen's group has promoted its position by producing a weekly newspaper column, presenting its stand at cottage association meetings and spreading the word in one to one contacts.

Even though the group's spokesmen appeared to represent a cross-section of the county, as with other organizations like this, its support was hard to gauge. The meeting Friday evening quickly put those concerns to rest.

Now, with a mantle of legitimacy in place, the grass-roots citizen group can press forward with vigor to have its issues addressed by candidates in the upcoming municipal election. Indeed, anyone placing his or her name on the ballot this fall should realize that the concerns expressed by the group must be given careful consideration.

Rambling on our mangled language

Here is a letter from a grumpy reader which begins "I have been several times surprised at your careless use of English, but you have outdone yourself in this..." and the letter goes on to flay me for an alleged linguistic misdemeanor.

All I can say to Grumpy Reader is for God's sake sir, obtain a life. If you have nothing better to do than pore over my poor prose winnowing out grammatical offences, then you are a man in serious need of a hobby.

Have you considered tatting?

Mind you, he has a point. English grammar and I have had little more than a nodding acquaintance since those

by Arthur Black

dreary, dreadful days of Grade 7 English Composition when a merciless Miss Swinson lashed the class with volley upon volley of English Grammar Rules and Regs.

It made me the pathetic unlettered wretch I am today. Even now, I shamle around with my particples dangling obscenely, tripping over misplaced modifiers, slapping ineffectively at insubordinate nouns, averting my eyes shyly from those brazen copulative conjunctions that don't even have the common decency to wear a set of brackets...

It's a situation up with which no one should have to put.

And sometimes I can't—put up with it, I mean. When that happens I have a failsafe cure. I reach for my Fractured English file.

This is where I keep my collection of people who mangle the English language even more grievously than I (do). More often than not, these folks are labouring under a disadvantage—namely that English is clearly not their first language.

Chamber closing means more jobs lost

Editor:

About a year from now our new Haliburton Economic Development Committee will release a well-thought-out report on Haliburton's economic future.

The report will contain an "inventory" of all our potential assets — stuff we didn't know — like Haliburton has a tourist-based economy, we are not suitable for auto production, chemical industries or grain farming. Gee, this will be so enlightening to all of us who live here. I'm sure it will interest those who are needing social assistance because they have lost their jobs in the tourism business. It will delight our tax revolt group when they realize the report will recommend Haliburton's need for funding a promotional agency like a Chamber of Commerce. (Hmm? Didn't we just squash one of these?)

Come on County Council—you took a provincial grant to start this "Economic Development" program. You then used Chamber monies to obtain this carrot from the provincial government. Without a doubt, this exercise will ultimately reveal we desperately need a Chamber. We will have sacrificed our current Chamber to fund this needless bureaucratic, money-sucking, useless advice. This is so ill-conceived it's absurd! Do you really think this group will come up with incredible new ideas for Haliburton's economic future? Maybe they will recommend an expanded forest products business or mining. You know, something our cottagers and tourists will really love.

Yes, the Highlands' COC board should share blame for the divisive problems surrounding the management of the Chamber the last few years. While political struggling may have been present behind the scenes, the overall image of the Highlands' COC to our valued visitors has been excellent.

Simply put, we cannot allow the COC office to close on Highway 35. We absolutely must not allow the toll-free 1-800 line to be turned off. These are the most basic tools Haliburton's tourist industry has to fight off assaults from over-funded Northern Ontario counties, the affluent and well-marketed Muskokas, and increasingly popular U.S. tourist areas.

You think a 35% tax hike from the County was bad? The main contributor to this enormous increase was social assistance paid to residents who are struggling. Go ahead, squash the tourist business and some more people will lose jobs and will ultimately line up for help from the County. At the very least County should take control of the Chamber office and make sure people are there to greet visitors, answer inquiries and mail out materials.

Do something and do it soon because industrial development for Haliburton is a fantasy. Tourism is what we are about — now and in the future.

MPP points out

The following is an open letter to the residents of Victoria-Haliburton from MPP Dennis Drainville.

The end of my first year as your MPP is an appropriate time to reflect on what I've tried to accomplish for you, the residents of Victoria-Haliburton.

I ran for public office because I believe that there are changes that need to take place in the way our government operates. Government needs to be more democratic and open to the questions and suggestions of the people. It must reflect their best interests without an arrogant "we know best" attitude that people increasingly reject.

There have been enormous challenges before us during this past year. Canada's very existence as a unified nation is more precarious than ever before. Our province is in the midst of the worst recession since the 1930s.

We must face the fact that, right now in Ontario, nearly half-a-million people are on U.I.C. and nearly a million of us are dependent on social assistance. Over 400,000 of these are children. It is essential that we create real jobs and put people back to work.

A major challenge for me has been attempting to respond to the needs of the many people who contacted my office. While we continue to help people individually with their problems, we try to help people find and use community resources and help them to become their own best advocates. I have tried to help individuals and organizations to

Why the Japanese 'tootle with vigour'

Such as whoever wrote in this brochure I have for a Japanese car rental firm. Some advice it offers: "When a passenger of foot heave in sight, tootle the horn. Trumpet at him melodiously at first, but if he still obstructs your passage, then tootle him with vigor."

Or these assembly instructions that came with an Italian-made baby carriage: "Insert the blushing for blocking in the proper split, push it deeply and wheel in anti time sense till it stops."

Oh yes, and buona fortuna. I believe that's Italian for "good luck".

A polite reminder on the back of a Japanese hotel room door, is, I think, appropriately Zen-like: "It is forbidden to steal the hotel towels please. If you are not a person to do such thing, please not to read notis."

In the Scandinavian countries, English is often spoken, but not always flawlessly. Witness the Oslo cocktail lounge which sports a sign reading: "Ladies are requested not to have children in the bar."

Riding in elevators can be unnerving in the most cosmopolitan of cities, but there's one lift in Belgrade, Yugoslavia that I intend to avoid for the rest of my life. It carries a sign that reads in (sort of) English: "To move the cabin, push button for wishing floor. If the cabin should enter more persons, each one should press number of wishing floor. Driving is then going alphabetically by national order."

Under which some wag has crayoned: "Or you could take the stairs."

Sometimes overseas English isn't merely mangled—it's fraught with menace. Look at this advertisement in a Hong Kong dentist's window. It reads: Teeth extracted by the latest Methodists."

Or the sign in a Jordanian tailor shop that advises:

Order your summers suit. Because is big rush we will execute customers in strict rotation."

Or the notice on the wall of an Acapulco hotel dining room: "The management has personally passed all the water served here."

No wonder they warn turistas not to drink the water.

Crime column to help OPP

Haliburton County says Maybee.

In the fall, Maybee will be approaching various businesses and organizations in the county to make people aware of the Crime Stoppers program and to solicit funds which will be used to provide cash awards to people who call in tips for crimes in Haliburton County.

"We want to be able to make our own payments," he says. "It's only fair that we should put some dollars into the program since we will be seeing direct results."

And considering the results in other communities which have been involved in Crime Stoppers, Maybee says there is no question about its effectiveness.

In Canada, Crime Stoppers has helped to solve more than 10,000 cases since 1982 and has been instrumental in the recovery of almost $10 million in property and has also confiscated over $39 million worth of narcotics.

More than 6,446 arrests have been made as a direct result of the Crime Stoppers Program.

The Town of Lindsay has been involved with the program for about a year and already $100,000 worth of stolen property has been recovered.

"It does work," says Maybee. "There is no question of its effectiveness. It is usually slow to start because people are cautious, but once they see their anonymity will be protected it really takes off.

"It lets people become involved in crime prevention in the community."

The police believe in the integrity of the system and have an interest in ensuring the program works, he says.

The tips provided through the Crime Stoppers program have to be specific enough for police to take any action, but Maybee says a anonymous telephone tip is enough for officers to obtain a search warrant.

The Crime of the Week appears for the first time in this week's edition of The Times. The Crime Stoppers phone number is 1-800-563-8477.

Children's Aid fights to end crisis

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

Facing a projected operating deficit of $1.5 million for 1991, the Kawartha-Haliburton Children's Aid Society is hoping provincial reforms will end its financial crisis.

Executive Director Bob Penny told The Times on Friday that the society has just finished a round of negotiations with the Ministry of Community and Social Service, and is now awaiting the outcome of a ministry meeting in Kingston.

"They are looking at all the deficits of societies in eastern Ontario," he said. "Until we know how much of the deficit is coverable, we don't know what the situation is."

At a board meeting in July, the CAS said it might have to close the office in Haliburton Village if the financial situation didn't improve.

Since then the ministry has agreed to cover the society's operating expenses and Penny says closure of the Haliburton office will only occur if the situation becomes critical.

"As long as we have the funding it will remain open,"

he said. "Our intent is to keep the office alive and well."

Earlier this year, the province agreed to underwrite a $1 million accumulated deficit which the society had incurred up to the end of 1990.

But pending a review of the society's finances, the ministry did not increase the base operating budget and has only agreed to cover expenditures until the end of October.

With the society handling the largest caseload it has ever had, and no increase in funding, the board expects to spend $1.5 million more than its allowable budget by the end of the year.

The record workload is a result of the impact the current recession is having on area families, says Penny.

If the government decides to cut back on the society's funding after the October deadline, he says there will have to be a drastic reduction in services including closure of the Haliburton office and discharging children from residential care.

Despite the gloomy outlook, Penny says he expects the ministry will continue paying the society's bills and hopes provincial reforms will address the problem of chronic underfunding which has plagued many Children's Aid Societies in recent years.

The society should know within a couple of weeks what direction the province intends to take with regard to the funding issue.

Grant benefits Somerville office

by Susan Grober

A $23,220 grant received by the Township of Somerville will provide training and employment for a recent college graduate.

The funding is provided by the Ministry of Municipal Affairs under its two-year Municipal Management Training Program, geared toward getting college and university graduates interested in a local government career.

Through this program, the township has hired Mike Rutter, a recent graduate of Sir Sandford Fleming College's business administration program, specializing in human resources.

Rutter, who is from Wilberforce, will receive extensive training through the program.

Acting Clerk-Treasurer Elinor Burke says Rutter will help out a great deal at the township office, especially with current staff changes resulting from Clerk Tammy McKelvey's decision to leave Somerville to work at the municipal office of Anson, Hindon and Minden.

At present, Rutter is training for Burke's previous position as deputy-clerk.

But he'll end up working in various departments of the township, to gain a broad and comprehensive picture of its administrative, financial, land use planning, and managerial functions.

"He'll be doing tax collecting, and other things," says Burke. "He will do general duties that go with the municipal office. But the aim is to train him toward a management position, not that he'll just be able to do typing."

Rutter, who started his position last week, will be a boon to the office, says Burke.

"He brings with him the experience of the human resources aspect, which will help with our internal staff changes," she said.

Also, Rutter worked at the township office last year, under a different government program. "So he fills a gap in that respect as well," Burke says.

The ministry's portion of the funding covers up to 50 per cent of the management trainee's wages and benefits to a maximum of $12,000 for each of the two years, plus 50 per cent of the expenses associated with the education and training needs.

The program is geared toward those having successfully completed such courses as: business, public, or municipal administration; commerce, economics, or political science; environmental studies, urban geography, urban or regional planning.

All municipalities are eligible to participate in the cost-sharing trainee program, which is one of three joint provincial/municipal programs designed to assist municipalities with the education and training of future municipal managers.

"I am pleased that our government is assisting municipalities in developing a highly-skilled work force," Victoria-Haliburton MPP Dennis Drainville said in a recent press release, when announcing this and a similar grant of $23,769 awarded to the Township of Mariposa, in Victoria County.

OLD FASHIONED SERVICE IS A PRICELESS COMPONENT OF EVERYTHING WE SELL

Job search on for laid-off Abex workers

Efforts by the province are already underway to find employment for the 104 Abex workers due to be laid off, says Dennis Drainville.

"Several initiatives by my office were underway within minutes of being informed of the impending lay-offs," said the MPP for Victoria-Haliburton.

On Tuesday August 27, Abex Industries announced that it was closing down its Lindsay brake shoe plant and laying off all of the 104 workers employed there. "Within 20 minutes my office was in contact with Abex Industries in Winchester, Virginia," said Drainville. Efforts to reach management and union representatives in the Lindsay plant were ineffective as the plant was closed down for the day.

Abex management was asked to provide plant drawings and other documents that would assist in selling the plant to a prospective buyer. They were also asked if they would assist in a worker buy-out of the plant. Speaking for Abex management, Phil Colantonio said that Abex would assist in any way it could to sell the plant. Colantonio also told Drainville's office that there just wasn't enough business to warrant the employees taking over the plant.

This information was relayed to Eric Lismanis, the Economic Development Coordinator for Lindsay. At the same time, Drainville explained that provincial assistance was being lined up by his office. The Peterborough Office of the Ministry of Industry, Trade and Technology was contacted and asked to assist Lismanis.

Earlier this week contact was made with Ron Sundberg, President of the USWA local at Abex. He was informed of the various training programs available to laid-off workers and of the efforts to create new jobs at the Abex plant.

"I am deeply concerned about the people who are losing their jobs. I will make sure that every effort possible is made by the provincial government to create new jobs for the workers at Abex and at other closed factories in our community," said Drainville.

Trent-Severn Waterway news

Recent rainfall has been responsible for the low tributary flows in the Gull and Burnt River watersheds.

Reservoir average percentages declined only 2.2 per cent to 61.1 per cent as of August 19, 1991.

This decline translates into a three or four centimetre loss during the week for a lake with an annual available drawdown of 1.5 metres.

The Kawartha Lakes levels have mostly stabilized after a small gain due to thunderstorms on the 16th and 17th.

Lake Scugog is once again in the navigation range, but boaters are to be cautioned as continued dry weather could result in losses which would lower the lake such that the navigation charts would be incorrect by a couple of centimetres.

Please contact the Trent-Severn Waterway at 705-742-9267 for updates on this situation.

Consumers angry over high taxes

And one trend he's noticed is the public's general disgust with the federal government's implementation of the Goods and Services Tax this January.

Haliburton Village's 15 per cent off mid-night madness sale, with an anti-tax theme, went over surprisingly well, he says.

"The people just flocked to the stores, and I believe it was because they felt they were not paying the taxes. It was just satisfying to them. So we know that the people are upset."

Even though it wasn't a true tax revolt (the stores ended up paying the eight per cent provincial, and seven per cent federal sales taxes), Connaughan feels the 15 per cent off sale wouldn't have been as successful without the anti-tax theme.

"When you say to the people, 'Hey, I'll pay the tax for you,' psychologically in their minds they have the satisfaction of believing it wasn't paid to the government."

Connaughan doesn't see a bright future for businesses.

"I hate to be pessimistic, but I don't see any change in the near future. If a person wasn't working in May and June, it's going to be pretty hard for them to find work in September, November and October. I still see more of a slowdown."

As co-owner of North Shore Lawn and Garden in Minden, Bob Patton relies on weather conditions to make or break his business.

"It's been a good summer for us, considering the conditions," he says. "It was certainly better than I expected. When it's wet, the grass grows, and people need new lawnmowers, or need their's repaired."

"Now it's dry, so they don't use or break their lawnmowers. It's a natural lull for us. Now I wait for the cool weather, and snow."

Patton found business to be erratic, yet at the same time encouraging.

"It was spotty," he says. "It would be busy for two or three days, and then it would be really quiet. It wasn't steady, but numbers-wise it was the same as last year. Of course, last year was worse than the year before."

Patton stresses that the local economy relies heavily on tourist dollars.

Even if a business isn't directly related to tourism, it will eventually benefit from the tourist dollars which trickle down from other industries.

"There have been a lot of people out of work here this summer. So, basically we have to keep the tourists coming up here, to keep putting money into the hands of the locals. It's a big chain reaction, right down the line."

Patton feels the recent closing of the Chamber of Commerce, which promotes the area, will have an effect on the economy.

"It's not going to help matters much, because the money has to come from somewhere."

"We've just got to bite the bullet, and work around things. Tax increases don't help much, because it takes away from the amount of money people have to spend."

"It's going to be tough," he says. "Everybody's going to have to change their ways and means. It's something you don't like to think about, but it's there. You've got to face it."

Patton says it's vital to regulate expenses, and estimate to what level business will increase or decrease.

"You must foresee into the future. You can't jump at the gun and just close everything out."

With summer over, Patton now anticipates the winter season when his business will focus on the sale of such items as snowblowers, snowmobiles and chainsaws.

But it continues to be hit and miss, as Patton must rely on the weather.

"Stuff like that is all big for us, but if there's no snow then nobody's going to be buying. We've got to wish for the worst weather going: cool, rainy summers and lots of snow in winter. It's really set on weather conditions."

Women will march to Take Back the Night

Since 1978, women around the world have taken to the streets on September 15 in a Take Back the Night rally and march to reclaim the night and assert their right to walk at any time of the day or night, unprotected. Now, marches are held in over 43 major Canadian cities, towns and villages across the country.

September 15, 1991 marks the second annual march by Haliburton County women to protest global violence against women.

Although historically the central theme of the march has been to demand the right of women to walk alone at night on the street, in recent years the whole spectrum of violence against women has been highlighted.

The connections between stranger rape, acquaintance rape, wife assault, sexual harassment, incest and other issues are vividly drawn. The Take Back the Night march brings women together in their communities to demand safety and real security for themselves, their children, their sisters, mothers and grandmothers.

The Take Back the Night march is a symbolic action in which women reclaim the right to walk at night — free from the fear of sexual harassment, sexual assault and rape.

"We take back our freedom to walk in safety anytime, anywhere," states Caroline Bishop, a member of the organizing committee, as she describes the annual march. It is an action which recognizes that male violence against women is pervasive in our society, and that it affects all women.

The message of the Take Back the Night march is to fight back. This includes fighting for measures that will make women safer, lobbying for adequate funding of women's services, ensuring such services reflect women's needs, and educating the public about issues of violence.

As a small community, many people in Haliburton County may think that we are protected from violence and that it only occurs in major cities. However, Jude King of the YWCA Women's Safety Network states that "women in Haliburton County are not protected from violence. The incidence of violence against women is no lower here than anywhere else in the province. In fact, over the years, the YWCA Women's Safety Network has seen an increasing number of women seeking become better equipped to help. "Give a person a fish and you have fed him for a day - Show the person how to fish and you have fed him for life."

To maintain the quality of service with the 2 1/2 staff people my budget allows has meant trying to supplement their efforts with the new technology of an answering machine. There are literally hundreds of cases that need individual attention. Meanwhile my office is receiving over 100 calls every day.

My goals have not changed in the first year of being at Queen's Park. I carry to Toronto the concerns that are given to me by the people of Victoria-Haliburton. I hear them in my office, on farms, in villages and at public functions from Thursday night to Sunday night each week as I spend that time in my riding.

I also take seriously my role in the legislature, as Chair of the Confederation Committee and as Parliamentary Assistant to Municipal Affairs. This is demanding work, but I'm glad to have the opportunity and privilege to serve the people of Victoria-Haliburton through these many activities.

Sliding into school days

Last week saw the first days of school for many young children, as a summer of fun and frolic came to an end. Still, little Debbie Ray seemed to be having quite a lot of fun on her very first day of school last Friday. Debbie is in Mrs. Welch's even-d a y Kindergarten class at Archie Stouffer Elementary School's annex building on Main Street.

Man charged for assault

Dispute

A dispute between neighbours has resulted in one person being charged with mischief over $1000.

The charge was laid following an incident August 25 on Spar Lake. According to the police, as a result of the dispute, four windows in one cottage and the windshield and rear window of a vehicle were broken. The hood of the car was also damaged.

Police briefs

Charged in the case is 29 year old Elizabeth Lacalamita of Toronto. She is scheduled to appear in court October 2.

Police estimate damage at $1200. The authorities say the dispute between the adjacent property owners had been simmering for a number of years.

Domestic Assault

A 59 year old Donald area man has been charged with domestic assault as a result of an incident on the evening of August 29.

Robert Stanley Colliver will face two charges of assault when he appears in court September 18.

Bodily harm

A charge of assault causing bodily harm has been laid against an Ajax man following a police investigation into a domestic dispute August 19.

Albert J. Bailey, 31, was released on bail after the charges were laid.

The victim in the assault is reported to have suffered cut and bruises.

No court appearance date has been set.

Men asked to stay home during march safety and support from their partners because of emotional, physical and sexual violence.

"What we need more than ever," King says, "is for women to take a strong stand against violence against women. The community has the information, the only way for violence to stop is for everyone to be responsible for making it stop."

"Take Back the Night symbolizes women's commitment to stopping all violence against women and demanding that perpetrators of violence — rapists, batterers, pornographers — be held responsible by all members of the community for their actions and be made to change."

Sexual assault and other forms of violence against women is an issue that affects all women. It keeps women in a state of fear; it governs how and where women walk; and where women live and work. Staying confined in our homes behind locked doors is not a solution. The march provides an opportunity for women to stand together and to celebrate the steps they are taking to support each other and to create change.

The organizing committee recognizes that many men are concerned about the incidence of violence against women.

However, the Take Back the Night march is organized by and for women. It is an opportunity for women to protest violence against women and children. By participating in a march as a group, women are making a statement that they can walk at night without male protection. Men are asked instead to show their support by speaking out against male violence against women, supporting women's rights to walk safely unprotected at night, and by attending the rally but not participating in the march itself.

All women and children in the county are invited to participate and to bring a candle to light for the march. The rally and march will begin at 7 p.m. on Sunday, September 15, 1991, in the parking lot beside the Skyslider in Haliburton Village.

The committee organizing the event has planned speakers, music by Precious Friends Diane Hagerman and Janice Benoit, a march through downtown Haliburton, and then refreshments back at the starting point at Hillside House Community Services Centre (behind the fire hall). The evening's events should conclude about 9 p.m.

For further information about the march or the evening's events, contact: Annegreth Gerrard, YWCA Women's Safety Network at 457-3355.

COC break-in Crime Stoppers

During the evening of 13-14 July 1991, a person or persons unknown broke into the HALIBURTON HIGHLANDS CHAMBER OF COMMERCE office, located on Highway 35 in Minden.

The perpetrators entered the premises through a window. Stolen was $39 in cash.

On the same night a second business in the village of Minden was broken into. The SANDALWOOD GIFT SHOP, located on Bobcaygeon Road (Main Street), Minden, was entered by a rear window. Stolen was $35 in loonies.

It is believed the two crimes were committed by the same people.

If you have any information about this or any other crime, call Lindsay Crimestoppers at 1-800-563-TIPS (8477).

You will never be asked to reveal your identity, or to testify in court. If your information leads to an arrest, Lindsay Crimestoppers will pay up to $1,000 in cash.

Obee honoured at retirement fete

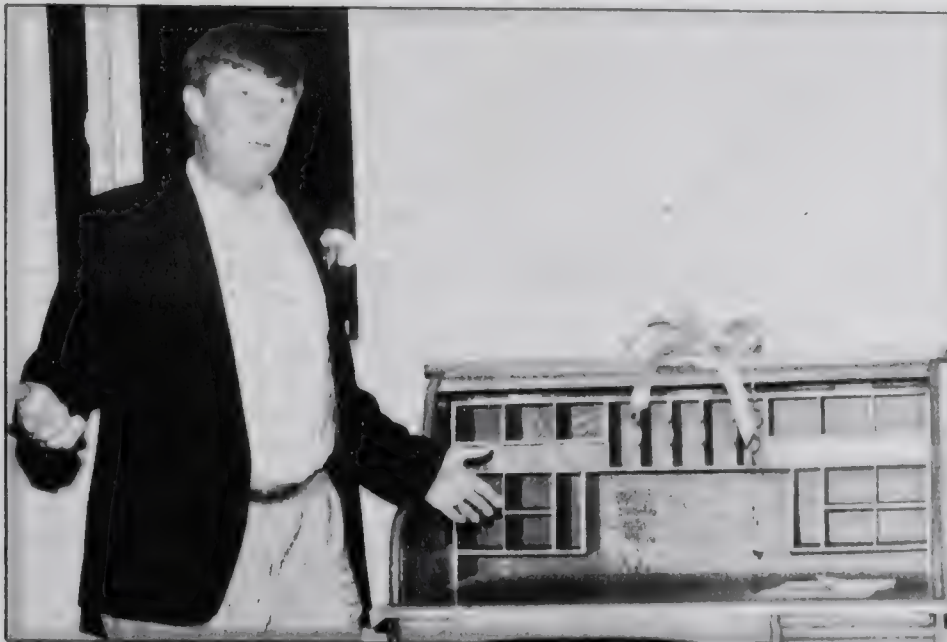

Family, friends, associates and neighbours gathered Friday evening to pay tribute to Bill Obee upon his retirement as Haliburton County engineer. Obee announced his retirement last month and officially took his leave of the county on August 31.

The gathering, at the Minden community centre, was a surprise for the man who has over-seen the county road system for the past 16 years.

His wife, Penny, had told him they were to attend a teachers' get-acquainted gathering, however, when he arrived Obee found he was the centre of everyone's attention.

The evening was organized by the road department staff. They presented him with a caricature of himself executed by Times artist Gil Parcell.

County Warden Carol Puffer thanked Obee for his many years of service. She pointed out that in his 16 years as county engineer, he has attended approximately 350 county council and roads committee meetings...reason enough for seeking retirement. She noted that Obee was key in organizing the road superintendents' association of the county, providing a forum for education and the exchange of ideas among the ten municipal road over-seers. The Warden presented the engineer with a plaque from the staff and members of the council marking his contribution to the county.

Appreciation for the organization of Haliburton County Road Superintendents' Association was echoed by its current president, Dysart superintendent Jim Taylor. He said Obee's influence and guidance will be missed by the organization.

Ted Simms formerly of the engineering firm Totten

Simms and Hubicki, told the gathering that in the time that Obee has served the county, the number of gravel roads has been reduced by 75%. He said Obee was a respected member of the road engineering community.

Obee was presented with an oak roll top desk from all those in attendance.

Although he has left the employ of the county, he will not be leaving Minden or road engineering concerns. He has taken a position with the Ontario Good Roads Association (OGRA) that will allow him to work out of his home most of the time and remain in the community.

In thanking those in attendance for the tributes, Obee said he is looking forward to the new challenges offered by the OGRA position and will remember fondly the experiences he has enjoyed as engineer for the County of Haliburton.

Following the presentations, those in attendance enjoyed an evening of socializing and dancing.

Works depict Shield from woman's view

The following events are being held at the Rails' End Gallery in Haliburton Village.

Ethel Curry and Doris McCarthy: Works from the 1930s and 1940s — September 14th to October 13th, 1991

This exhibition of works by Ethel Curry and Doris McCarthy brings together two wonderful views of Canada, views primarily of the Shield within Haliburton County which were shared and painted by these two young "artistic pioneers" in the 1930s and 1940s.

It is probably the only exhibition that may be held of the works created by these two women while in their youth: when their friendship was beginning, and when their co-operative exploration of visual expression was instilled within their relationship.

While studying with prominent Canadian artists through the Ontario College of Art and the Toronto School of Art (1930s), both women developed a close and lasting friendship, spending many winter and summer holidays together painting the landscape of the Haliburton Highlands.

Today, Miss Curry's family is still established within the village and extended community of Haliburton, Ontario. This exhibition will offer the public a chance to view these two women's paintings, which have for many years been within private collections and rarely exhibited. Approximately 15 paintings by each artist will be on display.

An Artists' Reception will take place at the Rails' End Gallery on Saturday, September 21st, noon to 3 p.m. Doris McCarthy will offer to sign copies of her memoirs: A Fool In Paradise and The Good Wine. Books will be available for purchase. However, if you have previously purchased her memoirs, you are welcome to bring them to the reception for Miss McCarthy to sign.

For more information, call 705-457-2330. The Rails' End Gallery is located in the village of Haliburton, on York Street, adjacent to Head Lake Park.

Snowmobile safety

Safety...It's an important subject to everyone during our daily routines and a key concern of the HCSA on our trails.

That's why the HCSA is committed to a program of education for the safe operation of a snowmobile.

During the 1990-91 snowmobile season, the HCSA established and operated snowmobile driver education courses for both non-licensed drivers and youths 12 years of age or older. This course is approximately six hours in length and covers such areas as the highway traffic act, environment, survival, alcohol, operating controls of a snowmobile and driver courtesy.

Upon completion of the course a written examination is taken by each participant and if successful on the exam a snowmobile operator's licence is issued.

Some 75 youths and adults participated in last year's safe snowmobile driver education course receiving their permits.

HCSA

The HCSA has arranged to continue this very important education program during the upcoming season under the direction of Mike Burke.

Driver education courses are tentatively planned for November 2 and 16 and further information may be had from Mike Burke 754-2637.

Horseshoe Lake golf tourney

The Horseshoe Lake Property Owners Association held its annual golf tournament at Blairhampton Golf Course on Saturday, August 17. Seventy-three golfers enjoyed the tournament and the prize giving which took place at the home of Rosemary and Al Seager on Shuyler's Island.

The low gross score for the ladies was won by Lorraine Christie while Bill Barker and Peter Skov tied for men's low gross with par 36's. Low net for the men was Charlie Dehasneth and there were several of the ladies who tied for their low net of 39.

The committee of Ed Beckett, Gene Foerster, Jack Donaldson and Al Seager would like to thank the Minden businesses that supported the tournament with their contributions.

Without the support of these kind sponsors, the tournament would have a different outcome and the committee is pleased that the golfers value the contribution. Our number of golfers increases year by year and they seem to enjoy the day. Many thanks. We look forward to next year.

August was a good, sunny month. Almost a carbon copy of last August with only .1 degree F difference in average temperature. It was very dry however, with less than an inch of rain this August and last August. With luck, we missed the serious impacts of Hurricane Bob. At one point it did pose a potential threat, but the storm tracked up the eastern coast rather than heading inland.

Beach party to benefit firefighters

by Susan Grober

Q: Why do firemen wear red suspenders?

A: To keep their bathing suits up at a "beach party" sponsored this month by the Kinmount Firefighters Ladies Auxiliary.

The dance will be held at the Kinmount Community Hall on Highway 503, on Saturday, September 28, at 8 p.m.

Since the weather's been a bit too cool to hold a beach party near the water.

In keeping with the beach party theme, party-goers are encouraged to dress up in their favourite summer gear such as jammers, cut-offs, and string bikinis.

And a best-dressed beach bum contest will be held.

Tickets for the dance will be ready this week, and can be purchased at the Kinvale Restaurant, or from any Kinmount firefighters or ladies auxiliary members.

Cost is $4 in advance, and $5 at the door. Proceeds will go into a bank account to purchase accessories for a generator recently purchased by the Ladies Auxiliary.

During the dance, the Ladies Auxiliary will present the fire department with the generator, which they bought for close to $1,500 collected through such events as yard sales, dances, and bake sales.

The generator will be used to produce light when the firefighters are on duty after sundown.

"When they're at a fire at night, and it's all knocked down, they can't see what they're doing," explains Ladies Auxiliary President Jeanne Simpson.

How to stay cool by using less energy.

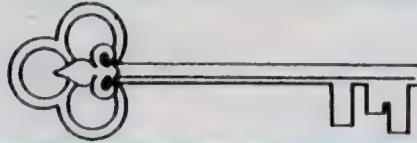

That's just one of the remarkable advantages you get when you install an energy efficient heat pump. It helps heat your home by using a fraction of the energy conventional forced air furnaces use, and it also gives you the benefit of air conditioning in summer. If you're thinking about installing air conditioning, think about a heat pump. And save energy year round.

Cadets prepare for new season

by Mabel Brannigan
Royal Canadian Legion
Branch 129

The Royal Canadian Legion Branch 129 is honoured to continue sponsoring the 1129 Army Cadet Corps in Haliburton County.

The registration program will be held in the Legion hall on September 9, 1991, from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. If you cannot make it, please contact a cadet or one of the officers to join later.

The cadet program is free and is fun. Several have just arrived home from Camp Ipperwash and Camp Borden. The past year saw field trips, first aid training, car wash programs, and military exercises among other activities.

This year, training will commence in September with a field exercise. The Army Cadet Corps from Peterborough and the Sea Cadet Corps from Cobocok have been invited. The Minden OPP will provide instruction on Search and Rescue training. Also in September, there will be sports and fun days.

Several promotions have been made for the coming year. They include the following:

Sgt. MacDuff to Warrant Officer

M/Cpl. Allaire to Sergeant

M/Cpl. Morrison to Sergeant

Cpl. Wilson to M/Corporal

L/Cpl. Mawby to M/Corporal

L/Cpl. Moseby to M/Corporal

Cpl. Randy Smith to Corporal

Cpl. Ryan Smith to Corporal

Cadet Houghton to L/Corporal

Cadet Harris to L/Corporal

Cadet Wheeler to L/Corporal

O'Cdt. Bellefleur has been promoted to 2nd Lieut. She was employed this summer by Camp Borden as an administrative officer.

Commanding Officer — Captain Denis Allaire

Training Officer — O/Cdt. John Cooper

Drill and Duties Officer — O/Cdt. Christopher Allaire

Supply Officer — Mrs. Joey Allaire

Administrative Officer — Ms. Thelma Lee

Public Relations Officer — Chantal Bellefleur

If you wish to participate in this fun-filled Corps, contact any above officer. The Legion encourages all parents to enroll boys and girls from twelve years up in this fantastic and unique program of citizenship.

We extend best wishes to Master Warrant Officer Dair, Branch 129's first recipient of the Legion Medal of Citizenship and Excellence, who has left the area to attend college in Toronto.

Best wishes to all Cadets in the coming year.

"WHERE THE ACTION IS"

Rediscovering our earthly roots

You Can't Go Home Again, Thomas Wolfe's classic book title, reminds us that time rushes on as people and surroundings change.

It recalls an uncle who was born and raised in Canada.

He was an opera singer and was performing in Tokyo when Japanese military activities commenced in 1939. Uncle was detained as an interpreter and eventually stayed to marry and raise a family in Japan.

All the while, he yearned to return home to Vancouver. Finally in 1969, he pulled up stakes and brought his family to Canada only to discover that he and Canada had changed — he no longer belonged because Japan had become his home.

Throughout the history of life on Earth, continents moved over vast distances while species arose, evolved and disappeared.

Change is inevitable when measured over geological periods of hundreds of thousands and millions of years. But a human life is just a flash on such a scale and for most of our species existence, steady change in our surroundings was NOT perceptible to individuals.

Until recently, only catastrophic events — earthquakes, volcanoes, famine, — interrupted the comforting rhythms and cycles of nature.

Now we can see rapid changes in society and Earth itself because of the explosive growth of human population and technology. But ever since astronauts on their way to the moon sent back photos that revealed this planet as a single entity whose main components — air, water, soil — are interconnected, HOME has acquired a new dimension.

Now we know that we belong to Earth because we are entangled in the web of life around the world.

Reflections

by David Suzuki

During the Second World War, my family was incarcerated in Slocan Lake Valley in the interior of British Columbia. With meagre rations and almost no money, many Japanese-Canadians supplemented their diets with fish, mushrooms and other edible plants.

To me as a child, those food gathering excursions into the mountains were wonderful adventures that fill my memory. One indelible experience was a hike into a group of lakes drained by Evans Creek into Slocan Lake.

The water was pure and full of fish. It was a tough hike and I remember whimpering with fatigue as an eight-year-old struggling over deadfalls while dodging devil's club spines. We reached the log cabin at Cahill Lake after dark, but with a night of sleep I was raring to go again.

For decades, my father recalled those adventures, pored over photos and talked of hiking back to those lakes one more time. Time passed, my mother died, and arthritis and gout twisted my father's limbs.

I wanted to help Dad fulfil his dream, but put it off with excuses about his physical ability and my busy schedule. The real reason was that I was afraid that reality would shatter our wonderful memories.

Two years ago at the age of 80, Dad forced my hand by declaring he would go alone because even if he died on the 12-kilometre hike it would be a good way to go. So with my family, Dad and I returned to Slocan Valley to backpack up into the valley we had last climbed 48 years ago.

The Evans Creek watershed is now in Valhalla Provincial Park. Parts of the park were logged more than 100 years ago without chainsaws or heavy machinery. Only choice trees were taken and hauled out by oxen or horses. It was harder and slower, but less disruptive of the forest and soil.

My father, who once seemed a colossus, is now frail and bent. As he struggled up the steep trail with my eight-year-old daughter, I could see myself in them as I had been in 1943.

"I can't believe how long the trail has become," Dad said as a grudging concession to age while Sarika kept asking, "Will we get there soon?" What is normally a three-hour hike became an eight-hour saga that ended triumphantly at Cahill Lake.

Dad's body is bent but his memory is keen and he was astounded at the size of the trees now carpeting the valley. In half a century, trees have risen to tower above the stumps. The cabin is long gone, but the lake, forest, and fish remain as spectacular and prolific as remembered.

The scale and scope of global degradation makes it easy to despair. But here in Valhalla, it is inspiring to see that when given a chance, nature has resilience and can replenish itself and flourish as it has for thousands of years.

Ironically, the park forest is still a target for development because it hasn't created a lot of jobs, and therefore is seen by some as a waste. But the watershed is a reminder of what wild nature can be, a baseline against which to compare other parts of the world. It serves as a thread of continuity and constancy in a time of tremendous change.

Our visit suggests we CAN go home.

Direct deposit of government cheques now available

by Doreen Hawman

As a result of the on-going mail strike, many recipients of Canada Pension, Old Age Security and Family Allowance have been concerned about the delivery of their monthly cheques.

The Government of Canada is now offering another option, called "Direct Deposit."

This enables pensioners and Family Allowance recipients to have their funds deposited electronically.

With Direct Deposit, the Government of Canada will deposit Old Age Security, Canada Pension, Family Allowance, War Veterans Allowance, etc., directly into the account of choice, at any bank, credit union, trust company or other financial institution located in Canada.

Applications are now available at your nearest Information Centre in Haliburton or Minden, and at most financial institutions.

For assistance, call 457-2733, Monday to Friday, or 286-4100, Monday and Tuesday.

CUPE frustrations portrayed by theatre group

Job security, heavier work loads, budget cuts, contracting out and general frustration with attempting to deal with these concerns and still be caring hospital workers, were the underlying themes of a dramatic presentation September 1 at the Minden Hospital.

The play was commissioned by the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) in Ontario which represents a cross-section of hospital workers including RNAs, secretarial staff, porters, cleaners, dietary and laundry workers, among others. The play portrayed the frustrations experienced by the employees as they bring a caring attitude to work and find the pressures of management edicts leave little time for caring. Management is portrayed as an ever-present, probing television camera and a booming voice that comes from speakers overhead.

Presented in dialogue and song, the play illustrated what the union feels is the Gwen Ballie, left, and Thandie Mpumwana of the Ground Zero theatre troupe of Toronto were the main characters in a dramatic presentation of the frustrations facing CUPE union hospital workers. The mannequin in the background, represents the patients for whom the hospital workers have less time because of their increasing work load and reduction in staff. A preview of the play was presented last week.

deteriorating level of care in Ontario hospitals and how patients and employees suffer under budget constraints.

The play will be touring to major centres in the near future and was presented here to a limited audience as a dress rehearsal.

Local CUPE representative Gwen Hewitt spoke after the dramatic presentation. She noted the union represents some 19,000 hospital workers across the province. She said the union's campaign was being undertaken to protect its members jobs and the public's right to a non-profit caring healthcare system. She said much of the blame for the crisis in the health care field was the responsibility of the federal government, which has cut assistance to Ontario for health services. As a result of ongoing budget cuts, Hewitt said "assembly line health care has come to Ontario." She pointed out the province's reduction in health care spending was responsible for the loss of the 18 chronic care bed addition to the Haliburton hospital.

According to the union, the concern with budgets has taken the caring out of hospital work

Safe solvent disposal

by Christine Staddon

You've just finished painting that old picnic table in the backyard and it looks great — but wait a minute. What are you going to do with the leftover paint and thinner? With those warning symbols on the labels, you don't want to put them out in the garbage. Oil-based paints and finishes are flammable and have been known to cause fires. And if they end up in an unsecured landfill, they might leak out and contaminate the groundwater.

Flush them down the drain? Not a good idea either, as they contain toxic solvents and pigments which could eventually end up in your drinking water.

Paints and thinners are just two of the many household products containing solvents made from petroleum. Some products, such as paint thinner, nail polish remover, and dry cleaning fluid, are almost 100 per cent solvent, while others — certain paints, polishes, glues and adhesives — have a high solvent content.

Solvents can be extremely hazardous. Most burn and some are highly flammable. They evaporate easily, giving off toxic fumes in the process. Some of them can be absorbed through the skin and may increase the risk of developing cancer with repeated exposure. All these characteristics make it important to dispose of used or surplus solvents carefully.

Used thinner should be left in a well-sealed jar until the particles settle. Then pour off the liquid and use it again — or give it to someone else who can use it. The particles left in the jar should be labelled and stored safely in a cool, dry area, along with any unusable paint, until you can take them to a household hazardous waste depot.

Some paints and other materials collected at depots are recycled; the rest are shipped to special facilities for safe treatment and disposal.

In the last year, more than 60 municipalities in Ontario have applied to the provincial environment ministry for funding to set up household hazardous waste depots. If your community hasn't held a collection event in the past year, maybe it's time it did.

For information on how to safely get rid of hazardous wastes, call your local works department or your regional Ministry of the Environment office.

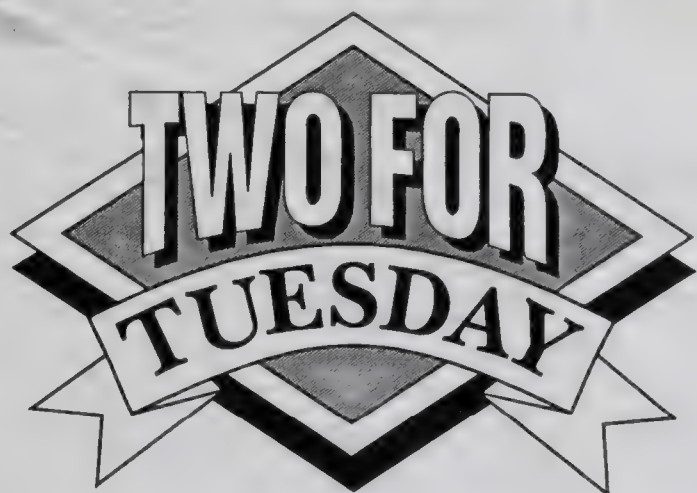

For information on environmentally safe alternatives for hazardous products, call Pollution Probe at 416-926-1907, the Recycling Council of Ontario at 416-960-1025, or the Ontario Waste Management Corporation at 416-923-2918.

Christine Staddon is a writer with the Ontario Waste Management Corporation (OWMC).

Around the County Town

by Jeanne Sears (call 286-1538)

Congratulations to Gloria Lemieux on winning the 50-50 draw from Kinmount Legion #441 on Saturday, August 31.

Dave and Beth Titus of Orillia spent a few days visiting her mother Bertha Hughes.

Sincere sympathy goes to the families and friends of the late Peter Valentine, David Burke, Alfred Richardson, Edna Morritt and Irene McElwain, whose funerals were last week.

Dorothy McElwain is presently visiting with Mike and Maureen McElwain of Millbrook.

Weekend guests with Audrey and Bob Vick included Dale, Cathy and Tyler Vick of Vandorf, Wayne Vick of Toronto and Bill, Julie and Meighan Woolfrey of Bridgenorth.

All good wishes to the following people, may you make good progress on the way to good health Bess Cox and Spike Moxam.

Last bridge game for Stanhope Drop-in was held September 3 with winners being Bill Kleinschmidt, Thelda Weston and Lil McFarlane. Starting September 10, bridge will be at Club 35 on Tuesdays at 1 p.m. All welcome.

Congratulations to Audrey and Bob Vick who celebrated their wedding anniversary last weekend.

On Saturday a draw for a porcelain doll was made at Kinmount Legion branch 441 and the winner was Florence Jopling holding ticket #345. At their last general meeting on August 15, Fred and Anne Mathias were presented with an Appreciation certificate for their work in the garden and their inside work. President Al Jopling made the presentation. At the same time, Life Branch Member's badge was presented to Bernice Owens.

Burt Milburn of Matheson has enjoyed a visit with his mother Dorothy Milburn.

Bill and Elizabeth Carrell had, as their guests recently, Louise Thomas of Stratford, Maoko Abe of Tokushima-Shi, Japan and Suzanne Carrell of Waterloo. To Suzanne's surprise, she caught a lovely rainbow trout in Gull Lake.

Mr and Mrs Allan Stalker of Stenhousemuir, Scotland were recent visitors with Mary and Tom Pearson of Big Hawk Lake and Allan made a point of dropping in to see his friends at The Times office. Nice to see you again Allan. See you next year!

Winners at Legion euchre games on August 29 included for most lone hands, Margaret Fletcher and Jack Chilton, Hilda Harrison and Eric Tompkins took the highs while Grace Dixon and Marg McAfee took seconds. Other winners included Claire Harrison, Marie Dennie, Mrs. Weston, George Winkley, George Brown, Vivian Anderson and M. Mansfield.

Janice and Jack Shaw and Florence Robinson visited relatives in Lindsay one day last week.

Mr and Mrs Neil Burk, Bessie Burk, Andrew Burk, Renee Curry, Abby Burk and Tim Hunter enjoyed a birthday party in Harcourt at the home of Andrea and Lee Donaldson, Aaron and Andi. Happy birthday Andrea.

Mr and Mrs Tom Nye Jr., and girls from Dunsford were guests with Celia Brown recently.

Paul and Islay Warburton visited me last Sunday and we all went to the Super Bingo with Joan and Christine Warburton and only one winner in the crowd.

Sunday guests with Florence Robinson included Larry and Janet Allen from Georgetown.

Mrs. Merle Reid is away visiting relatives in British Columbia.

Sue Little and Jean Neville report having a short but enjoyable holiday in Jamaica.

Mr and Mrs Ted Peacock and family of Warsaw spent the weekend at their cottage in Lochlin.

Helen and Neil Burke and Andrew Burk and Renee Curry visited Tim Burk at Sunnybrook one day last week.

Major Peter Hewitt and son Ian of Ottawa called on Mary Cox one day recently.

A happy group gathered recently at the Twelve Mile Lake home of Vange and Jack Croucher to honour Lucinda Linde, daughter of Virginia and Walter Linde who summered at their cottage on Boskung Lake. Lucinda will celebrate her marriage to Lewis Marten of Boston on October 12 at Dobb's Ferry, N.Y., where her parents have their home. The happy couple received several lovely gifts from well-wishers who live on Boskung and 12 Mile lakes.

Club 35 euchre games winners on September 2 included Ray Brown with most lone hands, Ellen Klok and Ken Wallace with the highs, Edith Russell, Harry Randell, Marg Fletcher and Thelda Weston. The games will be back at Club 35 as of September 9 - Euchres every Monday at 7:30 p.m. Everyone welcome.

Clarence and Carol Precor of Whitby and friends visited their summer home over the holiday weekend.

The Minden senior Curlers membership night is September 18 at the club at 7:30 p.m. Come out and meet old friends and make new ones. Everyone is welcome, refreshments will be served.

Congratulations to Pearl Cowen on being the lucky winner of the Super Rotary bingo on Sunday, September 1.

Mr and Mrs. Jos Lester of Samia and their relatives from England were visitors with the Earl Hewitts.

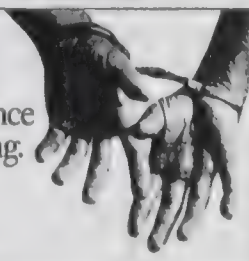

Mrs. Margaret Marks of Thornhill and Mr John Johnson of Houston, Texas were guests with the Earl Hewitts recently.

Mr and Mrs Ron Davis of Timmins visited her parents over the holiday weekend, Emma and Earl Hewitt.

The Chamber carries on

I take two weeks for holidays, come back and the world has changed. Communism is illegal in Russia, but still legal in Canada. Turn the next page and here locally our Chamber Board voted to cease daily operations. Things seem to be happening too quickly. It is necessary to step back and keep some perspective on our situation.

In 1985 the County agreed to a three year Tourism and Community Service agreement in which our Chamber would perform ten basic services. The money that we received was a fee for services rendered. In 1988 the agreement was renewed on a year to year basis. It was never a grant of money. The Chamber was hired to do a job. The Chamber, in order to effectively market this County, needed then and now a commitment beyond "here's some money for this year. I don't know about next year." Marketing an area such as ours takes time, planning (usually a year or two ahead) plus the hard costs of infrastructure (in watts lines, office equipment, etc.) and, most importantly, finding staff with marketing experience and know how. Not once was there in these eight years, any indication from the County that they were dissatisfied with the marketing or promotion of our Chamber, neither from the full County, their executive, or the representative who sits on our Board. There was no phone call, no visit, no letter or memo that expressed any opinion on what we were doing or should be doing differently.

Chamber News

by Shawn Hagerman

Once a year in March we always meet with County Council, review our activities for the past year, outline projects for the next year and present our budget requests. This year our Board and Marketing Committee, after much thought, discussion and reflection, asked only for an inflationary increase. In light of the recession it was a stand pat budget.

After my presentation there was not a single voice or question raised, there were no comments from anybody. We had, myself, our president, our manager and past president and co-treasurer Rhonda Elstone there ready, willing and able to discuss any concerns County may have had.

The County's surprise cut in funding left us with a short term cash flow problem. We must honour those financial commitments we have made over the past six years to market our County. However, the unexpected suddenness of County's decision has not given us enough time to find alternate means of raising money or enough time to gradually divest ourselves of those commitments to leases etc., that we have made. As an organization we cannot borrow, nor can we expect a volunteer board to shoulder the economic risk of carrying on in the hopes of additional fundings that may or may not appear. By suspending operations now, our Chamber financially remains intact, its debts can be paid and it can be quickly kick-started by the new Board when they think it is economically feasible.

The only real danger the Chamber faces is apathy. It needs the support of its members now. It needs an annual meeting that is fully attended with a slate of directors who are prepared to be elected and set a new direction for our Chamber. This past week I have had two people come to me on separate occasions and volunteer to work at least one day a week to keep the Chamber office open. Three more people and we are back in business. That is the spirit that will keep this Chamber and this County going.

There will be a Chamber, it may be different but it will regroup and continue to serve this community. WHY?? Simply because the need is there.

Oliver Drerup, R-2000 Spokesperson.

What to look for when buying a new home.

For the past 10 years I've studied building techniques to discover how to build a better home. A home that would meet the needs of today's energy and comfort conscious home buyers. What I learned was that one home — the R-2000 home — is your best choice. Why? Well, there are a lot of reasons. Here are just a few.

Superior Construction

- greater attention to detail prevents excess air leakage.
- continuous operating ventilation system offers superior indoor air quality all year round.

More Comfort

- reduces cold spots and drafts, with even temperature from attic to basement.

Lower Heating Costs

- the R-2000 home saves you money because it is more energy efficient than a conventionally built home.

Individually Inspected

- every R-2000 home is inspected and awarded a certificate if it meets R-2000 standards.

IN ADDITION, QUALIFIED PURCHASERS CAN RECEIVE A $2,000 REBATE FROM ONTARIO HYDRO.

Look for the R-2000 Excellence sign at your local builder.
The R-2000 home, it's the "Better-Built Home."

The R-2000 program is supported by: Ontario Hydro; Ministry of Energy; Energy, Mines & Resources Canada.

This Week On T.V.

The listings are supplied by the T.V. stations. While every effort is made to ensure their accuracy, last minute changes may be made by the stations.

CARDS OF THANKS

As president of the Haliburton County Fair Board, I would like to express my thanks to the executive, directors, associate directors, chairpersons and committees who helped in the planning, preparation and completion of the 1991 Fair. Many thanks also to all service clubs, township, local organizations, businesses and all volunteers who assisted in all different aspects of the Fair.
Ron Cox. 9B

Minden Lioness and Lions extend heartfelt thanks to everyone who made our Ducky Race a success. Special thanks to our ducks Carol Moffatt and Mike Cummins, Lee Oster and radio operators, Dave Howell for command post and swimmer Corina Schoep. Also thanks to those members and their families whose extra efforts made this day happen, especially Greg and Janet Readman. 9B

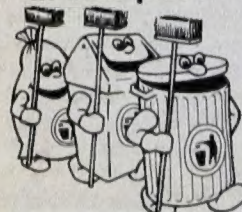

CHACE would like to thank all those daycare parents who donated to our refrigerator fund. Your contributions were appreciated greatly since this was an unexpected expense. 9B

Thanks Thanks Thanks
The Horseshoe Lake Property Owners' Association would like to thank the Minden area businesses who supported the annual HLPOA golf tournament with their contributions: Dale Austin Realty, Austrian Village Restaurant, Blairhampton Golf Club, the Brown Owl, CIBC, Camarvon Building Supplies, Guardian Drug Store, Gull River Homecare, Hart Lodge, Don Heaven Construction, Highlands Jewellers, Highland Plumbing, Home Hardware, Homestead Schnitzel House, Dollo's IGA, Kawartha Dairy, Marlin Travel, NJ's Restaurant, Northshore Lawn & Garden, Red Umbrella Inn, Re/Max, Rockcliffe Tavern, Sid Stamp Shell, TD Bank, Easton's Valumart and Vasey Insurance. Without the support of these kind sponsors the tournament would have a different outcome and the golfers are very appreciative of the support. 9B
